

DEVON PORTRAIT
Robbie Richardson

Robbie Carwithen Richardson is the inventor of the game of 'Carwithen's game of Crof' which, as the name suggests, is a cross between golf and croquet. "The game, which is sort of cross-country croquet, came about because we have a very uneven lawn," explained Robbie. "It's part of my crusade to get people back out in the garden playing games."

When not making Crof sets at his workshop in Holne, Robbie is busy shoeing horses or trimming zebras' feet at Paignton Zoo.

He is one of the country's leading remedial farriers and author of The Horse's Foot and Related Problems. He can also be seen playing the part of Colin in the BBC series Jam and Jerusalem. To find out more about Crof, call ☎01364 631402, www.crof.co.uk.

Photo by Mike Alsford, www.alsfordpictures.com.

Mike is happy to carry out portrait shoots for both professional and private clients.